

The Scratching Post

Sister Kitten's Summer 2022 Newsletter

Recent TNR project

A kitten peers out at us from behind scrap metal during a large TNR project in Bryson City. We trapped 25 adult cats and 14 kittens. The adults were TNRed and are safely back in their colony. This is only one of many projects we are currently working on.

Your continued support makes projects like this possible.

Fostering

We want to thank our foster families and explain why fostering is such an important step between trapping and adoption.

1. Newly trapped feral kittens have very little experience with humans, and they are fearful and suspicious.
2. By giving them their own space in a spare room or bathroom, they will respond to gradual contact with humans.
3. With patience and care from the foster family, kittens will become loving and adoptable.

A quote from a foster family

“Watching a kitten go from an insecure, fearful being to a confident loving kitten is priceless. It’s so fulfilling to know that your care and a simple space in your home is not only keeping cats healthy and safe, but also gives them the opportunity to thrive in the years ahead.” Michelle

Can you foster with children in the family? Absolutely!

Rescued from the mean streets, now thriving in foster care.

A couple of recent success stories

This little beauty was spotted near Tupelo Honey. We trapped her and she was fostered and treated for ringworm by Angel, our adoption coordinator. She was adopted by the person who first spotted her. Kitty's name? Tupelo, of course!

Three of the five "Harry Potter" kittens were adopted by the same family from our facilities at Petco on Brevard Road. How lucky these three brothers are to be able to grow up together!

This is what your donations help us accomplish!
